A Celebration of Dedication at Addus HealthCare

*Addus HealthCare salutes its team of professionals
during National Home Care Month*

For Immediate Release

November 13, 2008

In recognition of National Home Care Month, Addus HealthCare employees will wear green ribbons throughout November as a salute to all health and home care workers who work every day to bring independence to millions of seniors nationwide. Addus joins the National Association for Home Care & Hospice in this celebration.

Last month, the company sent green ribbons to its 117 branches and 12,000 employees and asked employees to wear them as a sign of appreciation for their dedication to both their consumers and their profession. The "Addus HealthCare Celebrates" ribbons are green, the color of Addus' logo.

"Addus HealthCare takes great pride in providing restorative care and assistance to consumers in a way that helps them to stay independent and to heal in the safety, comfort, and familiarity of their own homes," says Mark Heaney, Addus HealthCare's President and CEO. "We appreciate the sacrifices our professionals make to help us deliver on that goal and we recognize that the ordinary things they do make an extraordinary impact in the lives of those they serve."

Addus' home care aides provide companionship services allowing their consumers to live safely in the comfort of their own homes. Supportive services can include bathing, dressing and grooming in addition to assistance with meal preparation, housekeeping and shopping.

Addus' skilled home care services provide registered nurses, therapists and counselors to consumers who are in need of short- or long-term assistance in order to maintain their own independence.

Thanks to home care professionals, more than 11 million Americans maintain their independence and can live in their own homes. The home care industry plays a vital role in the overall healthcare system because it saves American taxpayers and commercial health insurers billions of health care dollars each year. In the United States, home care is the most cost-effective means of providing treatment.

The company will also be recognizing National Home Care Month in many different ways that include celebrations at many of its branch offices.

Addus HealthCare is a nationwide leader in home health services providing a range of comprehensive home care services that includes continuous nursing care, personal care, private duty assisted services, adult day care and in-home supportive services.

More than 12,000 employees in 16 states work to improve the health and well-being of clients by providing quality, cost-effective health care services. Addus' employees are home care and home health aides, licensed practical nurses, registered nurses, therapists and social workers.

Founded in 1979 in the Chicago area, Addus HealthCare has grown in to a national organization and industry leader that serves more than 45,000 clients annually. To learn more about Addus HealthCare, its mission, its services and its locations, visit www.addus.com.
